

The Wisconsin No Call law is wonderful. I don't want any company or subsidiary calling me, regardless of a prior relationship. The Wisconsin law protects me from this. I only want contact from banks, credit companies and related institutions to be initiated by me, at my convenience. Receiving calls from these companies out of the blue is annoying, and makes me think much less of these businesses. I've even switched financial institutions in the past due to telemarketing annoyances. Please allow Wisconsin to keep protecting its citizens from telemarketing. I encourage the FCC to strengthen national laws as well, eliminating as much telemarketing as possible.
